

ABSTRACT

A method of producing a polymer or a stellar polymer which comprises polymerizing a vinyl monomer in the manner of living
5 radical polymerization and adding a compound having two or more polymerizable carbon-carbon double bonds at the end point of the polymerization.

A composition which comprises, as an essential component, a hydroxyl-terminated polymer falling under said polymer and 10 a compound having, in each molecule, not less than two functional groups reactive with the hydroxyl group